PHILLIPS A PUZZLE

HE PITCHES GREAT BALL AGAINST THE GRAND RAPIDS TEAM.

Indianapolis Won Easily from the Visitors, Whose Hits Were Few and Scattered-Bright Outlook.

There was a shaking up in the Indianapolis team after Thursday's game and the result was a somewhat improved article yesterday. The team played with more spirit and as if there was something in baseball life worth living for. It is true that they profited very materially by the erratic pitching of Rhines, who seemed to have a case of "blind staggers," but their hitting, while by no means profuse, was done at the right time. To Phillips is largely due the poor showing made by Grand Rapids, and, as a matter of fact, they should have been shut out. He let them down with seven hits, three of which were made after chances had been given to retire the side, and their three runs were made under like circumstances. Phillips pitched one of the best games of the season. Rhines, on the contrary, did mot seem able to locate the plate, and, although he was hit safely for only two triples, a double and a single, it was because he sent so many men to base on balls that little opportunity was given the batters to size him up. Parker relieved him after the fourth inning and was a decided improvement, Indianapolis getting but four hits off him. Connie Murphy was put in to catch and he showed some of the stuff that made him reputation enough in the Southern League to induce Comiskey to sign him for Cincinnati. He acted as if he wanted to play ball and took sufficient interest in the game to encourage the patrons to think they have an assistant for Westlake who can be relied on for good, steady work.

Mills and Shields traded positions, a shift that appeared to do the latter good, but did not improve the former's fielding to any extent. The batting order was twisted around somewhat and, as yesterday's hitting was exceedingly timely, it is possible the change made was a wholesome one.
Aside from the excellent pitching of Philpecially bright helding feat ures were a catch by Dalrymple of Car-roll's short fly to center field in the first, Callopy's stop of Leidy's hot grounder in the fourth, and the second base play of Wheelock, who accepted eleven chancesall that offered. Neither team scored in the first, but in the second, with one out, Mills fumbled Spies's easy grounder and let him to first. Callopy forced him out at second and singles by Pinckney and Watkins brought Callopy in. But for Leidy's fumble of Watkins's single, Callopy would have been held at third and the run saved. Watkins was put out trying to make second on the er-ror. In the third, Indianapolis scored two runs, Murphy getting a base on balls and reaching second on a wild pitch and third on Henry's sacrifice. Motz was sent to first on balls and Dalrymple lifted one over Wright's head for three bases, sending the two men in. Gray hit to Wheelock, who threw Dalrymple out at the plate, and Mills flew out to Watkins. The visitors tied the score in the last half when, with one out, Mills dropped Wheelock's little fly. Carroll's sacrifice moved him along a base and Caruthers's single to left brought him home. Wright fouled out to Gray. It was in the fourth inning that Indian-apolis smothered the men from Michigan. Leidy and Shields reached first on bells and Phillips sacrificed. Murphy hit to Wheelock, who threw Leidy out at the plate. The little catcher stole second and both he and Shields scored on Henry's twobagger to left. Motz and Dalrymple were sent to base on balls, filling the corners, and Gray brought all three in with his triple to left, scoring himself on Mills's safe hit to center. Leidy hit to Callopy forcing Mills out at second and retiring th side. Parker then took Rhines's place i the box and for two innings Indianapolis could do very little with him. In the seventh, however, after Mills had gone out a first, Leidy hit along the left foul line fo two bases. Shields moved him to third with a sacrifice and he scored on Phillips's single to center. Callopy fumbled Mur phy's grounder, and Carroll followed with a must of Henry's long fly to right, two Motz hit safe to left, scoring Henry, and Dairymple lifted a high fly to Carroll, retiring the side. This was all the damage done to Mr. Parker who, with proper sup-port, would have held the home team down to three hits and one run.

The Grand Rapids men picked up their third and last run in the fifth inning. Parker led off with a single to right and Whee lock followed with a grounder to Motz who in trying to head Parker off at second, h him in the back. Carroll hit to Phillips who threw Parker out at third. Caruther hit to Shields, who retired Carroll at second, but Caruthers was too fast to be doubled and the result was that Wheelock scored on the play, though it was only a long slide that saved him, as Murphy was right after him with the ball. Wright hit o Mills and was thrown out at first, ending the inning. During the last four innings only four Grand Rapids players reached first base, and of these but one got as far as second. It was a great day for Phillips. The attendance was five hundred. Score:

Toledo, 11; Detroit, 3. TOLEDO, O., June 15.-Toledo won easily to-day, Detroit playing a listless game after Captain Glenalvin had been ordered to the bench in the third inning. In the fourth, with only two men out, the Detrolts took the field and allowed the home club to go to bat, a ludicrous blunder with scarce a parallel in baseball history.

Poor Playing by Philadelphia and Worse by Cincinnati. PHILADELPHIA, June 15.-The game between the Philadelphias and the Cincinnatis to-day opened sharply and ended in a parody on good ball. The visitors were one ahead in the first half of the fifth inning, with two out and Turner and Grady on bases, when Delehanty came to the bat and was purposely sent to first by Chamberlain. Boyle then made a two-bagger and brought all three men in, although he was himself put out at second. From that time on the visitors became demoralized, and in the last inning the home team and in the last inning the home team played just as bad ball. In the ninth Allen was hit by a pitched ball, breaking his left cheek bone. Reilly took his place and Cross went to third. Callahan succeded Baltimore, 17; St. Louis, 3.

Taylor in the box in the ninth inning. The last man put out was McPhee, who was hit by a batted ball. Attendance, 4,450. Score: ance, 4,700. Score: Baltimore. Philadelphia. A.B. R. H. O. A. ## A GOOD TEAM PROMISED.

The Management Says It Is Going to Give Indianapolis Better Ball. The Indianapolis ball club is going to de better work from now on or the management will know the reason of any failure in that direction, and it will have to be a pretty good reason, too. Inexcusable blunders will not be condoned, but will be treated hereafter as they should be. The team has had just what it needs-a stirring up-and the matter is not going to be allowed to rest there. Telegrams were sent out yesterday in several diections looking to a strengthening of th club. Another pitcher is especially sought, and Wadsworth, of Memphis, was thought to be just the man, but a telegram from that club conveys the disappointing intelligence that he will not be released. Indianapolis was willing to buy his freedom, but Memphis wouldn't sell. There are several other districts to be heard from, however.

From the way Cincinnati is losing it is more than probable that Motz and Cross will have to report there to-morrow. Comiskey has been importuned to allow them to stay, but he does not reply. It may be that they will be allowed to return here Monday, and, if not, it is quite probable McCarthy will be seen in a Hoosier uniform. Indianapolis likes Motz and Motz likes Indianapolis, and it will be a disappointment all around if he is compelled to remain with Cincinnati. As stated some days ago, he is very anxious to continue playing here and will urge Comiskey to allow him to do so. In any event, the club's management promises that Indianapolis shall have a team that will do the city credit and cut a figure in the Western League race, which is not yet half over. This assurance will be gratifying to the patrons of the national game here, whose loyalty to their team is surpassed nowhere in the League, and equaled by that of few. Cross will probably pitch for Indianapolis in the second Grand Rapids game, which will be called at 3:45 this afternoon, fifteen minutes earlier than usual. Murphy wil catch unless Westlake's finger is much better. Watkins will be in the box for the visitors. The latter are without the services terms by the residents of the city. The board yesterday issued the following order to Clerk Barnard: "In view of the recent complaints of the nonremoval of garbage, Department of Public Health and Charities issue the following order to you, viz: When a complaint of any citizen that he desires garbage removed is received the clerk shall request the citizen to again notify the health office clerk in case the garbage has not been removed within twenty-four hours from the time that the first complaint was entered. When the first complaint is made the clerk shall at once notify the garbage contractor. In case this notice is not heeded within twenty-four hours, then, when a second notice is received, the clerk of the Board of Health shall at once notify the Board of Public Works of the nonperformance of duty on the part of the garbage contractor. The powers of this board are limited to serving notice, but the garbage contract comes within the domain of the Board of Public Works, and in case of a failure to remove garbage this board can only notify the Board of Public Works." This order will be carried out to the letter, and every failure of the garbage contractors to fulfill their contract will, in the future, be brought directly to the knowledge of the Board of Public Works, which has control of the contract. The continued publication of all the complaints received at the office of the Board of Health has had the effect of causing the garbage contractor to bestir himself. Yesterday afternoon the "garbage man" appeared at the Health Board's office and secured a list of the complainants, and said he would see that the garbage was removed immediately.

CITY DISPENSARY CHANGE.

Superintendent Gelss Will Resign To-Day, It Is Reported. The resignation of Dr. Geiss, as superintendent of the City Dispensary, it is reported, is expected at the Board of Health office this morning, and should it be received Dr. Lambert will be appointed in his stead. The resignation is not voluntary, but is the result of school rivalry. Dr. Gelss was connected with the Indiana Medical College, of Indiana, as was Dr. Wright, of the City Hospital, and the rea-son given for desiring Dr. Gelss to give way is that a physician from the Central College of Physicians and Surgeons should have one of the positions. Dr. Gelss will take a place on the staff of the Medical College of Indiana. Drs. Jameson and Earp said they knew nothing about the intended resignation.

Paving Resolutions Adopted. The following improvement resolutions were adopted by the Board of Public Works yesterday:

There are five officers allowed the board and the entire time of two of them is taken up in carding houses where there are infectious diseases. The other three are compelled to do the sanitary work, and as there are twenty thousand houses to be inspected, as well as all the streets and alleys, it is impossible for them to do the work as thoroughly as it should be done.

The Car Tracks Too Low. Manager Kenyon, of the Western Paving and Supply Company, has declined to raise the surface of the asphalt pavements about the street-car tracks at the intersection of Kentucky and Capitol avenues and St. Clair street and Massachusets aveaue. He says the car tracks are below the grade and the street-car company should bear the expense of raising the surface of the street. The Board of Works will investigate the claim and require the responsible party to raise the surface.

Objecting to Sewer Assessment. James E. Twiname appeared before the Board of Public Works yesterday, at the head of a committee, which objected to the assessment of certain property for the Leorard-street drain sewer. The grounds of the objections were that the objectors' property was drained by the Shelby-street sewer. Mr. Twiname had a special objec-tion on the grounds that part of the land owned by him and assessed for the sewer was to be taken by the city in opening a street through his property. Weeds Must Be Cut.

The Board of Health yesterday issued an order to the sanitary inspectors to pay strict attention to the enforcement of the ordinance in reference to the cutting of weeds. The board is of the opinion that special attention should be paid to this ordinance at this time of the year. A North-End Sewer Contract.

The contract for the local sewer in the first alley east of Meridian street, from Fourteenth to Seventeenth street, was awarded to Gansberg & Roney by the Board of Works at 64 cents a lineal foot. The other bids ranged from 67 cents to 90 cents.

FLAGS FOR THE CHILDREN. Anniversary Observance at Military

Park To-Day. An interesting patriotic event to-day will be the flag presentation, in honor of the flag anniversary, to the Indianapolis Free Kindergartens, at Military Park. The assembly call will be sounded by the bugle at 4 o'clock in the afternoon and then the school children (thousands are expected) will sing "My Country 'Tis of Thee." Maj. Robert Anderson Drum Corps will furnish the music. Mayor Denny, Col. I. N. Walk-er and Frank H. Blackledge will make ad-dresses. Prof. T. J. McAvoy will recite Drake's "American Flag." Capt. Wallace Foster, assisted by seven members of Maj. of Health, was granted police powers by Robert Anderson Post, will present the flags the Board of Public Safety yesterday.

History of the Flag.

Washington Spec'al to Chicago Record. In 1777 Congress appointed a committee, with General Washington at its head, to design a flag suitable for the new-born nation. This committee prepared a design and then looked around for some one to make the flag in accordance with it. A young woman named Betsy Ross, who was noted for her skill in needlework, lived in a little house in Arch street, Philadelphia, which The influx of complaints against nonremoval of garbage has led the Board of is still standing. It is said that she used Health to compel a compliance with the to make the handsome ruffled bosoms of ordinance by the contractors who insist the shirts that General Washington himself wore, but, at any rate, the great patriot upon such a rigid compliance with its was familiar with her handiwork, so he called upon her, and showing her the rough draft of the flag, which draft is still in the possession of the State Department, asked her if she could make such a banner. Betsy modestly said that she would try. The design adopted by the committee consisted of alternating red and white stripes, thirteen in number, and thirteen six-pointed stars on a background of blue, symbolic of the union of the thirteen colonies. Betsy Ross suggested that five-pointed stars would be more appropriate, and General Washington took her advice. A further change in the arrangement of the stars was made from the original circle to the idea of a cross. The flag made by Betsy Ross and submitted by the committee was adopted by Congress, June 14, 1777, and she was commissioned to make a great many more The original was shown at the exposition at Chicago last summer, when the Liberty bell was dedicated. Her uncle, Colonel Ross, an officer of the revolutionary army, s said to have provided her with the means to secure the necessary material, and there is a record of an order on the Treasury Department, made in 1777, "to pay Betsy Ross fourteen pounds twelve shillings two

> Though the flag was adopted in June the formal announcement of it was not made until Sept. 3 following, when, for the first time, it was flung to the breeze as a na-tional ensign. The first public use of it was made by Paul Jones, who ran it to the masthead of his brig, the Ranger, at Portsmouth, and put to sea to prove himself a terror to the English merchant vessels. Prior to this nearly every colony had from one to five symbols, but all now adopted the stars and stripes. The flag was first flown on land during the campaign which resulted in the capture of Philadelphia by Lord Howe. From that time it was the recognized ensign of the American Republio until May 1, 1795, when the number of stars and stripes were increased to fifteen on the taking in of Vermont and Kentucky. In 1816, a number of other new States having been admitted, Congress appointed a committee to consider the question of al-tering the flag. Captain Reid, the naval bero, advocated before the committee the reduction of the number of stripes to thirteen, and the adoption of a number of stars equal to the number of States, formed into the shape of a large star. This arrange-ment was not approved wholly, but the following year a similar bill, with the exception of the arranging of the stars, was passed by Congress and received President Monroe's signature April 14, 1818, and this is the flag that is daily seen floating from the flagstaffs of the United States government. The union has now been changed from a square to a rectangle, and on it are forty-four stars, symbolic of the number of States. The stars are arranged in six straight lines, the upper and lower lines having eight stars, while the other four lines contain seven stars each.

TAX ASSESSING COMPLETED.

Assessor Wolf Says the City Directory Is a Bungled Job.

The arduous task of securing a list of Marion county's taxables is practically complete. The last report will be made by the deputy assessors of Center township to-night and Assessor Wolf will discharge all of the men save a half dozen who will pick up the odds and ends. Assessor Wolf says that his men have been greatly hampered this year, and that the assessment was taken under considerable difficulty. There have been many things to annoy and retard the work, chief among which, he says, is the inaccuracy of the city directory. When the assessment was begun the directory was cut into nine parts and bound into small books. The deputies rely almost solely upon the directory to check off the taxpayers. Assessor Wolf says that the directory published this spring is a bad job and not at all up to the standard. In comparing the taxable lists the assessors found that they had 2,300 taxpayers whose names could not be found in the directory, and on the other hand the directory contained the names of nearly twenty thousand persons who could not be found by The perennial tax-dodger has been another source of annoyance in making up the lists. The deputies have been compelled to call at different residences and places of business scores of times, and in many instances were unable to find the person wanted, and gave up the chase. One or two cases were reported where the heads of households boldly denied their names when approached, and asked the assessor to call at a stated time, when they would "find Mr. —." The assessor would call at the agreed hour and probably find the house locked and no one at home. There are now in the assessor's office about 150 lists that were not assessed

No Suspicion Against Them. It was rumored yesterday that two men employed by Kingan & Co., suspected of knowing something of the murder of Patrick O'Day, had been held at the police station under other charges to hold them until a close investigation of their reported connection with O'Day's death had been made. The only men employed by Kingan & Co, who have been held at the police station within the last few days are Martin O'Hara and Patrick O'Neal. GOVERNOR SAYS THE MINERS OUGHT TO ACCEPT THE COMPROMISE.

Jeffersonville Company Ordered Home -Operators Intend to Put Nonunion Men to Work.

There are now but seven companies of militia at Farmersburg and Sullivan, nume bering altogether 330 men, including arall lerymen. Governor Matthews yesterday ores dered the Jeffersonville company home, and the thirty-seven men comprising that come mand, which is Company G, First Regiment, returned to that place last night.

The Governor is hopeful of the outcome. though admitting that unless the miner ratify the action of their officials by going to work the situation will be one of even more gravity than that of the past two weeks. He hopes that at the Terre Haute conference to-day the miners will do as their leaders advise and accept the scale. If they do so the troops will, of course, be ordered home at once, but if not there is no telling when the services of the militias men can be dispensed with.

"I believe the men should return to work," said the Governor to a Journal reporter yesterday, "on the basis of the agreement entered into for them by the officers of their organization at Columbus at the recent conference. That conference was gone into in good faith by both miners and operators, and the officers of the association believed they were acting for the good of the men when they agreed, on the latter's part, to the scale fixed upon. This compromise did not, of course, give the miners all they had hoped to obtain, but their leaders believed it was the best that could be done just now and acted accorded ingly. Having so acted, it is

Since the strike was first ordered conditions unlooked for by the leaders have arisen which made it advisable to terminate the strike upon as advantage. ous terms as could be obtained. There was a good, healthy feeling of sympathy from all sides with the strikers until they began violate the law. This sympathy been anticipated by the officials of their national association, who are wise enoug to see, however, that it was being dissipated gradually as the men resorted to stopping trains and other proceedings outside the pale of the law. All this no dou had its effect in determining these officers to meet the operators part way in an efthe further acts of violence which were dissipating that feeling of sympathy which almost everybody familiar with the circum-stances felt for these hard working men-"I do not for one moment believe that Mr. McBride, the president of one Mine Workers' Association, sold out, as has been intimated. I believe that he and the rest of the officers acted in perfect good faith and with a view to doing what was best for the miners. I sincerely trust that they will decide at their conference to return to work. If they refuse to do so what can the public depend upon when they agree to go into a conference with the operators? Their officers represented them, and the operators can, of course, claim that the agreement was supposed to be binding upon the men. If faith is violated in this instance, how can the men hope to retain the sympathy which, at the outset was freely rendered them? It would be much the wisest course for them now to matter of a more advantageous scale. The operators intend to operate their mines, beginning next Monday, even if they have to employ nonunion miners to do the work. In the latter event conflict sooner or later between the strikers and the non-union men is almost inevitable. A wise solution of the problem for all concern would be for the miners to carry out the agreement made by the officers of their na-

A LAW FIRM'S ANNIVERSARY.

For Seventeen Years the Duncan Smith Partnership Has Existed.

The seventeenth anniversary of the law partnership of John S. Duncan and Charles W. Smith was celebrated last night. The event was made particularly auspicious by, the completion yesterday of the firm's new library, located on the third floor and immediately above their chambers, at No. 7644 East Washington street. The new room, brilliantly lighted and conveniently furnished throughout, was thrown open to the members of the Indianapolis Bar Association between the hours of 8 and 10 o'clock. Two hundred members of the bar and their friends responded to the printed invitations sent out during the week, and were on hand to partake of the hospitality of Duncan & Smith. The guests were first shown through the library on the third floor, a large, airy apartment, sixty feet in length by twenty feet in width. On the second rooms are located, and in one of the reat gered around an immense punch bowl long enough to quaff generously of the beverage. Cigars were in convenient reach of those who cared to smoke. The law library of Duncan & Smith is said to be the finest and most complete private library in Indi-anapolis. .It consists of over four thousand volumes, well bound and indexed. The shelving of the new room extends almost the entire length of the apartment. The cases are of modern design, glass covered and built of black walnut. The floor is covered with

There are few firms in this cfty that can boast of a partnership of seventeen years standing. On June 15, 1877, John S. Duncan and Charles W. Smith swung to the breeze the shingle that proclaimed the new firm, Duncan & Smith. They were young men then, and began life together. Side by side they have fought great legal battles and watched the rise and fall of members of the profession. Into their own existence as a firm the years have brought success and prosperity. From the modest little patronage enjoyed seventeen years ago, the firm has steadily advanced in the legal world until its name is known throughout the West. Among the guests of honor last night were all of the members of the Supreme and Appellate Bench. A number of ladles, the immediate friends of the firm. graced the rooms with their presence.
